BREED THEATER.

The Days of Witchcraft, Feature Motion Picture.

A most unsual and interesting motion picture is the one mentioned above, and the large attendance at the Breed theater testified to the fact by their generous applause. This picture deals with a weirdly attractive phase of life, and the various episodes serve to make it a great novelty. The Winning Coat is a pretty romance of the sixteenth century, disproving the fact that it is not the coat that makes the man. The Guerrilla is a brilliant story of the south, at the war time, and the excellent acting, magnificent scenes, the cleverly laid plot, all go to make it the admirable picture that it is. Other fine pictures are: In the Limelight, Under Suspicion, Policemen in Action, A Sound Sleeper, and Charile Forced to Find a Job. The musical portion was of the usual high order of excellence, Madam Morelle singing the famous Patti Waltz Song, and Mr. Delaney rendering "By the Old Oaken Bucket, Louise."

The Auditorium.

The holiday crowds that packed the theater to the doors, at all three perfermances on Monday, were well pleased at a bill that would be hard to beat. The management were disappointed on two acts, and having only a few hours to fill their places, the Riva Larsen troupe of European gymnasis (four in number) were secured. Riva Larsen troupe of European gym-nasts (four in number) were secured, they having arrived only a few days ago from Cuba. This act promises to be the vandeville sensation of the sea-son, comprising, as it does, almost ev-ery branch of acrobatic work. Hand balancing and ground tumbling com-bined with some sensational work in midair, class this act at the head of their profession, as all round gymmidair, class this act at the head of their profession, as all round gynnasts. The final feat in which the smallest member of the troupe, a daint, little lady, supports the other three from the rings, is about the biggest applause getter here this season.

A genuinely funny team are Harrigan and Giles, who are a pair of Hebrew comedians out of the ordinary. They finish with an eccentric dance the "Kirzotski" that is excruciatingly funny. Misg Giles' change from a soubrette to a Herbrew makeup affords a great contrast and brings forth a lot of good comedy. Marion Hillebrant, "The Girl at the Harp," presents a neat musical specialty, introducing several clever imitations on the HISTORIC CANE. Man After Fourteen Years.

Edward Gelston, a member of Elias Howe, Jr., post, G. A. R., of Bridgeport, was made happy the other day by the recovery in a strange manner of a valuable cane which was stolen from him at New Haven fourteen years ago. One morning recently the stick upon which was carved Mr. Gelston's mame was picked up on Stratford avenue in two pieces, but the break was recent and boked as though a wheel had passed over it.

The came was carved in the Army hospital at Hampton, Va., by a Connecticut man named Hoffman, 83 years old. It was of cotton wood, with the old. It was of cotton wood, with the corps and division emblems carved. Near the handle is the American flag and the mottoes "We will stand by the Flag" and "In God we trust" carved lengthways of the stick. It was picked up by Mr. Bennett of Hartford, Steam Boiler Inspection company.

These pessimistic utterances on the part of the gifted Bourke may be founded on something solld in the way of statesmanship, but are more likely to be the result of the fact that the party in which he has "sloshed about" for so long, and the ear of which he has had for a very long period, has no further special or particular use for him, and he finds to a large extent at least his occupation gone.
